

TECHNICAL ARCHITECTURE

A technical architecture document outlines the high-level design and structure of a system or application. It defines the components, their interactions, and the technology stack used to build and operate the system.

